1. Why was Germany so poor after WWI, and what happened to the economy?

After WWI, the Germans had to pay for war damages. They printed too much money at once to pay for everything, and that made German money become worthless. This combined with the Great Depression in the U.S. and crashed their economy.

2. How did Adolph Hitler and Nazis use propaganda to the support of German citizens?

Answers may vary: They held rallies, they made speeches, they created groups like the Hitler Youth, they made videos.

3. What people did the Nazi party discriminate against the most? In what ways did the Nazi party discriminate against them?

Nazis discriminated against the Jewish people more than anyone else. Jewish people were forbidden from having certain jobs and could be arrested for no reason other than being Jewish. Nazis also destroyed their homes and places of work.
